

BRIDGET HAUSER

POTTERY

Bridget is very well known to Empty Bowls Project patrons. She and her husband Bill are founders of the Empty Bowls Project in Dripping Springs and for over 20 years they were the driving force behind this annual event that benefits Helping Hands. As owners of Sunset Canyon Pottery (where many of the Empty Bowls Project events took place), Bridget and Bill created and donated thousands upon thousands of bowls. Because of their generosity, the Dripping Springs Empty Bowls Project has become a permanent and highly successful fundraiser in our community, raising hundreds of thousands of dollars over the years.

After selling Sunset Canyon Pottery and retiring in San Marcos in 2016, Bridget has continued her ceramics in her new workspace, Tree Haus Studio, where she creates, works, plays, teaches, and learns. Bridget's inspiration comes from natural elements in the environment which can be seen and enjoyed from the wide array of windows in her studio. She produces functional pieces as well as beautiful sculptural designs.

Bridget lived next door to a potter when she was a child. As a result of this early influence, creating things out of clay became a consuming passion as well as a life-long endeavor. Even today, creating pottery always makes her happy and Bridget hopes that her artistic pieces make others just as happy!

There are really no words to adequately express our appreciation for Bridget and Bill Hauser. They are truly the spirit behind the Empty Bowls Project. Many thanks for their dedication, vision, and support.

We look forward to welcoming them back to our event in 2021!

CONTACT:

Bridget Hauser
Pottery

Website

Dripping Springs Helping Hands, Inc.

